Green University

A Green University is an educational institution that meets its need for natural resources – such as energy, water, and materials – without compromising the ability of people as well as future generations to meet their own needs.

Green University is a Green engine for the new paradigm of the "green economy" and contributes to the overall sustainability of the planet. The power of being a Green sparks creativity in the teaching-learning practices of the University.

Elements of nature influence how students learn and teachers teach while decreasing the institution's negative impact on the environment. Green practices also stimulate the student's mind from an intellectual, social, and civil perspective.

Green University put environmental principles to work on campus by investing in clean air, clean water, green energy, green transport, green uniform, safe waste management and recycling, and locally sourced food.

Higher Education & the Planet

The higher education community is pivotal in creating the next generation of environmental leaders needed to protect our planet from the impact of climate change.

We cannot have a sustainable world where universities promote unsustainability, on the other hand, a sustainable university can help catalyze a more sustainable world.

As an institution of research and learning, every University will have to play an important role to address the impact of climate change. This is why every university must become a green university.
